

Erin Madonna has spent the past decade of her career helping others achieve their goals through sound business & financial analysis. Most recently, she joined Edward Jones in 2023, as a third-generation female financial advisor. She previously worked in business analytics for large corporations and agencies alike, most noteworthy for Under Armour, Microsoft, and The Children's Place. Erin graduated in 2013 from Towson University Honors College, Summa Cum Laude, and brings a background in business & marketing.

Erin's advocacy for helping others also has extended beyond the workplace, and she has volunteered throughout the years with many organizations including Habitat for Humanity & the Alzheimer's Association and is a board member of the Hackettstown Business Improvement District.

Her interest in finance was sparked at an early age from family role models, her mother and grandmother. Her grandmother served the Auburn, California community with Edward Jones for 16 years, and unfortunately passed in 2021 from Lewy body dementia. This personal connection to brain diseases has brought her to serve on the board of the IES Brain Research Foundation.

Outside of work, Erin is a dedicated mother & wife, occasional golfer, and a yoga teacher and practitioner. She tries to bring mindfulness & a calming presence wherever she goes.